

Woodland Terrace Times

Est. 2015

Volume 3

Issue #10

January 2018

History of M&M's

We would like to thank everyone for attending our 4th Annual Christmas Family Dinner on Monday, December 11th. It was a very special time for all.

We would like to thank you for all kindnesses shown to our staff during this past Christmas Season. Again thank you.

Mary 2nd

Eleanor 4th

Betty H. 11th

Tina 31st

Snapple Trivia from Ada

-Corn always has an even number of rows on each ear.

Forrest Mars, Sr. got the idea for chocolate candies covered in a hard shell in the 1930s when he saw soldiers during the Spanish Civil War eating small pieces of chocolate covered with a hard candy shell that kept the candy from melting in the sun. These candies were called Smarties. Mars received a patent for his manufacturing process on March 3, 1941. M&Ms were first sold to the public in 1941 packaged in cardboard tubes. The initials were the first letters of the last names of Mars and Bruce Murrie, the son the William Murrie, Hershey Chocolate Company's president. The candies were made with Hershey's chocolate because at the time the company controlled the chocolate supply. In 1948, the packaging changed to the brown plastic pouch. The letter "m" is printed on each candy with vegetable dye. In 1954, Peanut M&Ms were sold. That same year, the M&M brand characters and the slogan, "The milk chocolate melts in your mouth, not in your hand" were introduced.